

ELISABETH CRAFT STUDENT TRAVEL FELLOWSHIPS

Archaeological Institute of America
Washington D.C. Society

The Washington D.C. Society of the Archaeological Institute of America is pleased to begin accepting applications for the 2021 Elisabeth Craft Student Travel Fellowship. This year, four students will be awarded $1000*, which helps defray the cost of attendance at the Annual Meeting of the Archaeological Institute of America, to be held in San Francisco, CA, from 5-8 January 2022 (www.archaeological.org/programs/professionals/annual-meeting/).

Eligible undergraduate and graduate students should be currently enrolled at institutions in the greater Washington area (DC-MD-VA) and be members of the AIA.

- For application and instructions, visit: www.dcaia.org/travel-fellowship.
- All application materials must be received by 5 November 2021.

* $1000 award amount is based upon physical travel to conference location. If applicant wishes to attend the conference remotely, award amount will be adjusted.

---

For more information, please contact:

Dr. Alexander Nagel, nagela@si.edu

Smithsonian Institution, National Museum of Natural History
Residential Research Associate, Department of Anthropology
10th St. & Constitution Ave. NW, Washington DC 20560